Dear Customer:

For nearly twenty years the Corder family has been designing, reworking and now manufacturing drums. Understanding the sound qualities that a discriminating drummer wants, we know the durability and flexibility you need. We believe in the craftsmanship necessary to make fine drums.

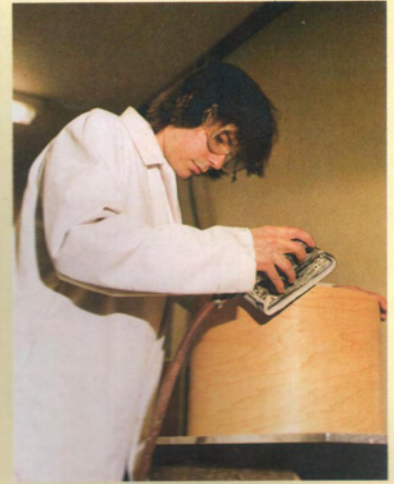

Strong maple wood shells, our versatile tom-tom mounts, a snare strainer that's easy to control without ties, and our rugged hardware are some of the features that make our drums popular literally around the world.

We're proud of the sound of our drum sets, and would be proud to be part of your sound, too.

Sincerely,

James J. Corder

Manufacturers of:
• Corder Drums • CD Sticks • Music Flip Folders • Custom Fit Flute Lyre • Rain-Bojingle Tambourines

The warm "woody" sound of a Corder drum shell begins with either six or eight plies of carefully selected maple, precisely placed and bent for perfect roundness and maximum strength. The ends are then beveled, to create a distinct sound edge. Our wood craftsmen sand the shell inside and out and finish the inside with a sealer to protect the wood and retain the resonance that only a wood shell gives. Finally the shell is given a natural wood finish or wrapped in dazzling color.
